

Re: GO! Ministries Recommendation Letter
12 December 2015

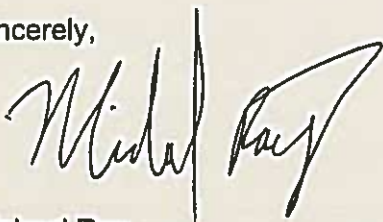

Dear Sir or Ma'am,

For the past several years Dave Sgro has run a missions organization called GO! Ministries that has been successful in dramatically bettering the physical and spiritual lives of the people of Guatemala. He has led and received more than a dozen short-term missions teams from Manna Church and other churches and organizations, each of which gave outstanding reports of life change, including Guatemalans meeting Jesus for the first time, hundreds of hungry children fed on a daily basis, and cooperation with community leaders to implement initiatives for increasing the wellbeing of orphans and widows. Additionally, those who participate in trips that are sponsored by Dave report internal life change and new perspectives on evangelism and outreach. The initiatives led by Dave included such projects as installing stoves for widows, providing nourishment and support for orphans, providing clean water, and developing micro-businesses that meet the needs of the community and provide jobs for a number of men in need.

The results of Dave's work on the field are impeccable, and his perseverance in the midst of family difficulties shows his commitment to finishing the task God has given him in Guatemala and in future countries. The spiritual health of his children is always at the forefront of his mind, and the ongoing development of their individual callings from the Lord is fantastic. The ongoing growth and success of the ministry in Guatemala proves that God's hand is at work through GO! Ministries and the Sgro family.

It is my opinion and recommendation that pastors wishing to do work in Guatemala ought to get to know Dave and invest in what God is doing in Guatemala so that the efforts may be increased and more lives can be changed.

Sincerely,

Michael Ray
Missions Pastor
